Early Engagement Program

The AQR Early Engagement Program is a unique opportunity for first and second year college students to learn about AQR and quantitative finance.

This exceptional opportunity allows participants to learn from a range of AQR professionals, including senior leadership. Through panel discussions, lectures and more, we offer a broad introduction to quantitative finance, the technology behind it and the opportunities for those who choose it as a career.

Participants will have an inside track on our summer internship program, including recommended coursework and other qualifications for acceptance.
